History

"THERE'S A SOUL IN THAT METAL"

In the 1950s, Portos Giusti was a young talent hired by Piaggio, the maker of the Vespa, the cult moped at that time and since. Something then dawned on him that would change his life. Metal became the main feature of cherished workmanship at the major furniture companies, until the Eureka moment that persuaded him to produce a designer bed. Its success was cemented by his unique, memorable signature: Giusti Portos, a Tuscan surname and a literary given name, the perfect definition of a brand specialised in creating beauty with the hands, with iron and with fire. Seventy years later, the little atelier has been transformed into a modern undertaking that produces complete furniture solutions for interiors, with the same care taken as it once was.

MAISON GIUSTI PORTOS WORLDWIDE

The story of Giusti Portos continues under the leadership of Marco Giusti, the son of Portos. His entrepreneurial vision has seen through the company's process of internationalisation, to increase its competitiveness in an increasingly complex market. This is how Maison Giusti Portos came about.

Growth has in no way undermined the company's original values: craftsmanship, minute attention to detail, creativity and innovation, all guidelines to produce unique, inimitable artistic furnishings, then as now.

The artisan spirit of its beginnings has remained intact, as have the pleasure of following up each piece from start to finish, the attention to quality rather than quantity, the pride of offering only unique creations, based on the one-off nature of real wood, the ironwork and the painterly hand used in the decorative motifs. Skills and passion that ensure the ability to fulfil every request, surpassing the offering of any brand in our ability to create custom-made, absolutely exclusive furnishings, for an unmistakably personalised solution.

Iron

A HEART OF IRON

The workshop is the heart of the company: this is the birthplace of the most exclusive products, heated in the forging furnace and beaten by hand, first by Portos himself, then later by master craftsmen he had trained in person. Five decades of experience in ironwork means Maison Giusti Portos can now bring to the market the very best of smithery, craftsmanship and design, alongside our workmanship. Tradition and innovation co-exist in this process, alongside ancient forging tools and modern, cutting-edge machinery, for example the sandblaster, used to eliminate common impurities in iron and give the forged product a quality and guarantee of the highest standards.

The brush is positioned over the forehead area, with visible brushstrokes. The lighting is dramatic, highlighting the texture of the paint and the contours of the sculpture.

Decoration

ART AT THE HEART OF OUR WORK

Every decoration is always produced by hand, by experienced artists. This skill enables Maison Giusti Portos to uniquely customise every creation, resulting in environments with a warm and welcoming atmosphere. A wide range of decorations and finishes and the painstaking advice of specialised staff means the most suitable decorative motifs can be applied to every piece, to emphasise its lines and form, according to the client's wishes. Paintwork is completed by hand and treated for durability over time, with a special varnish that protects the surfaces from stains, yellowing and ageing.

Gold and silver leaf

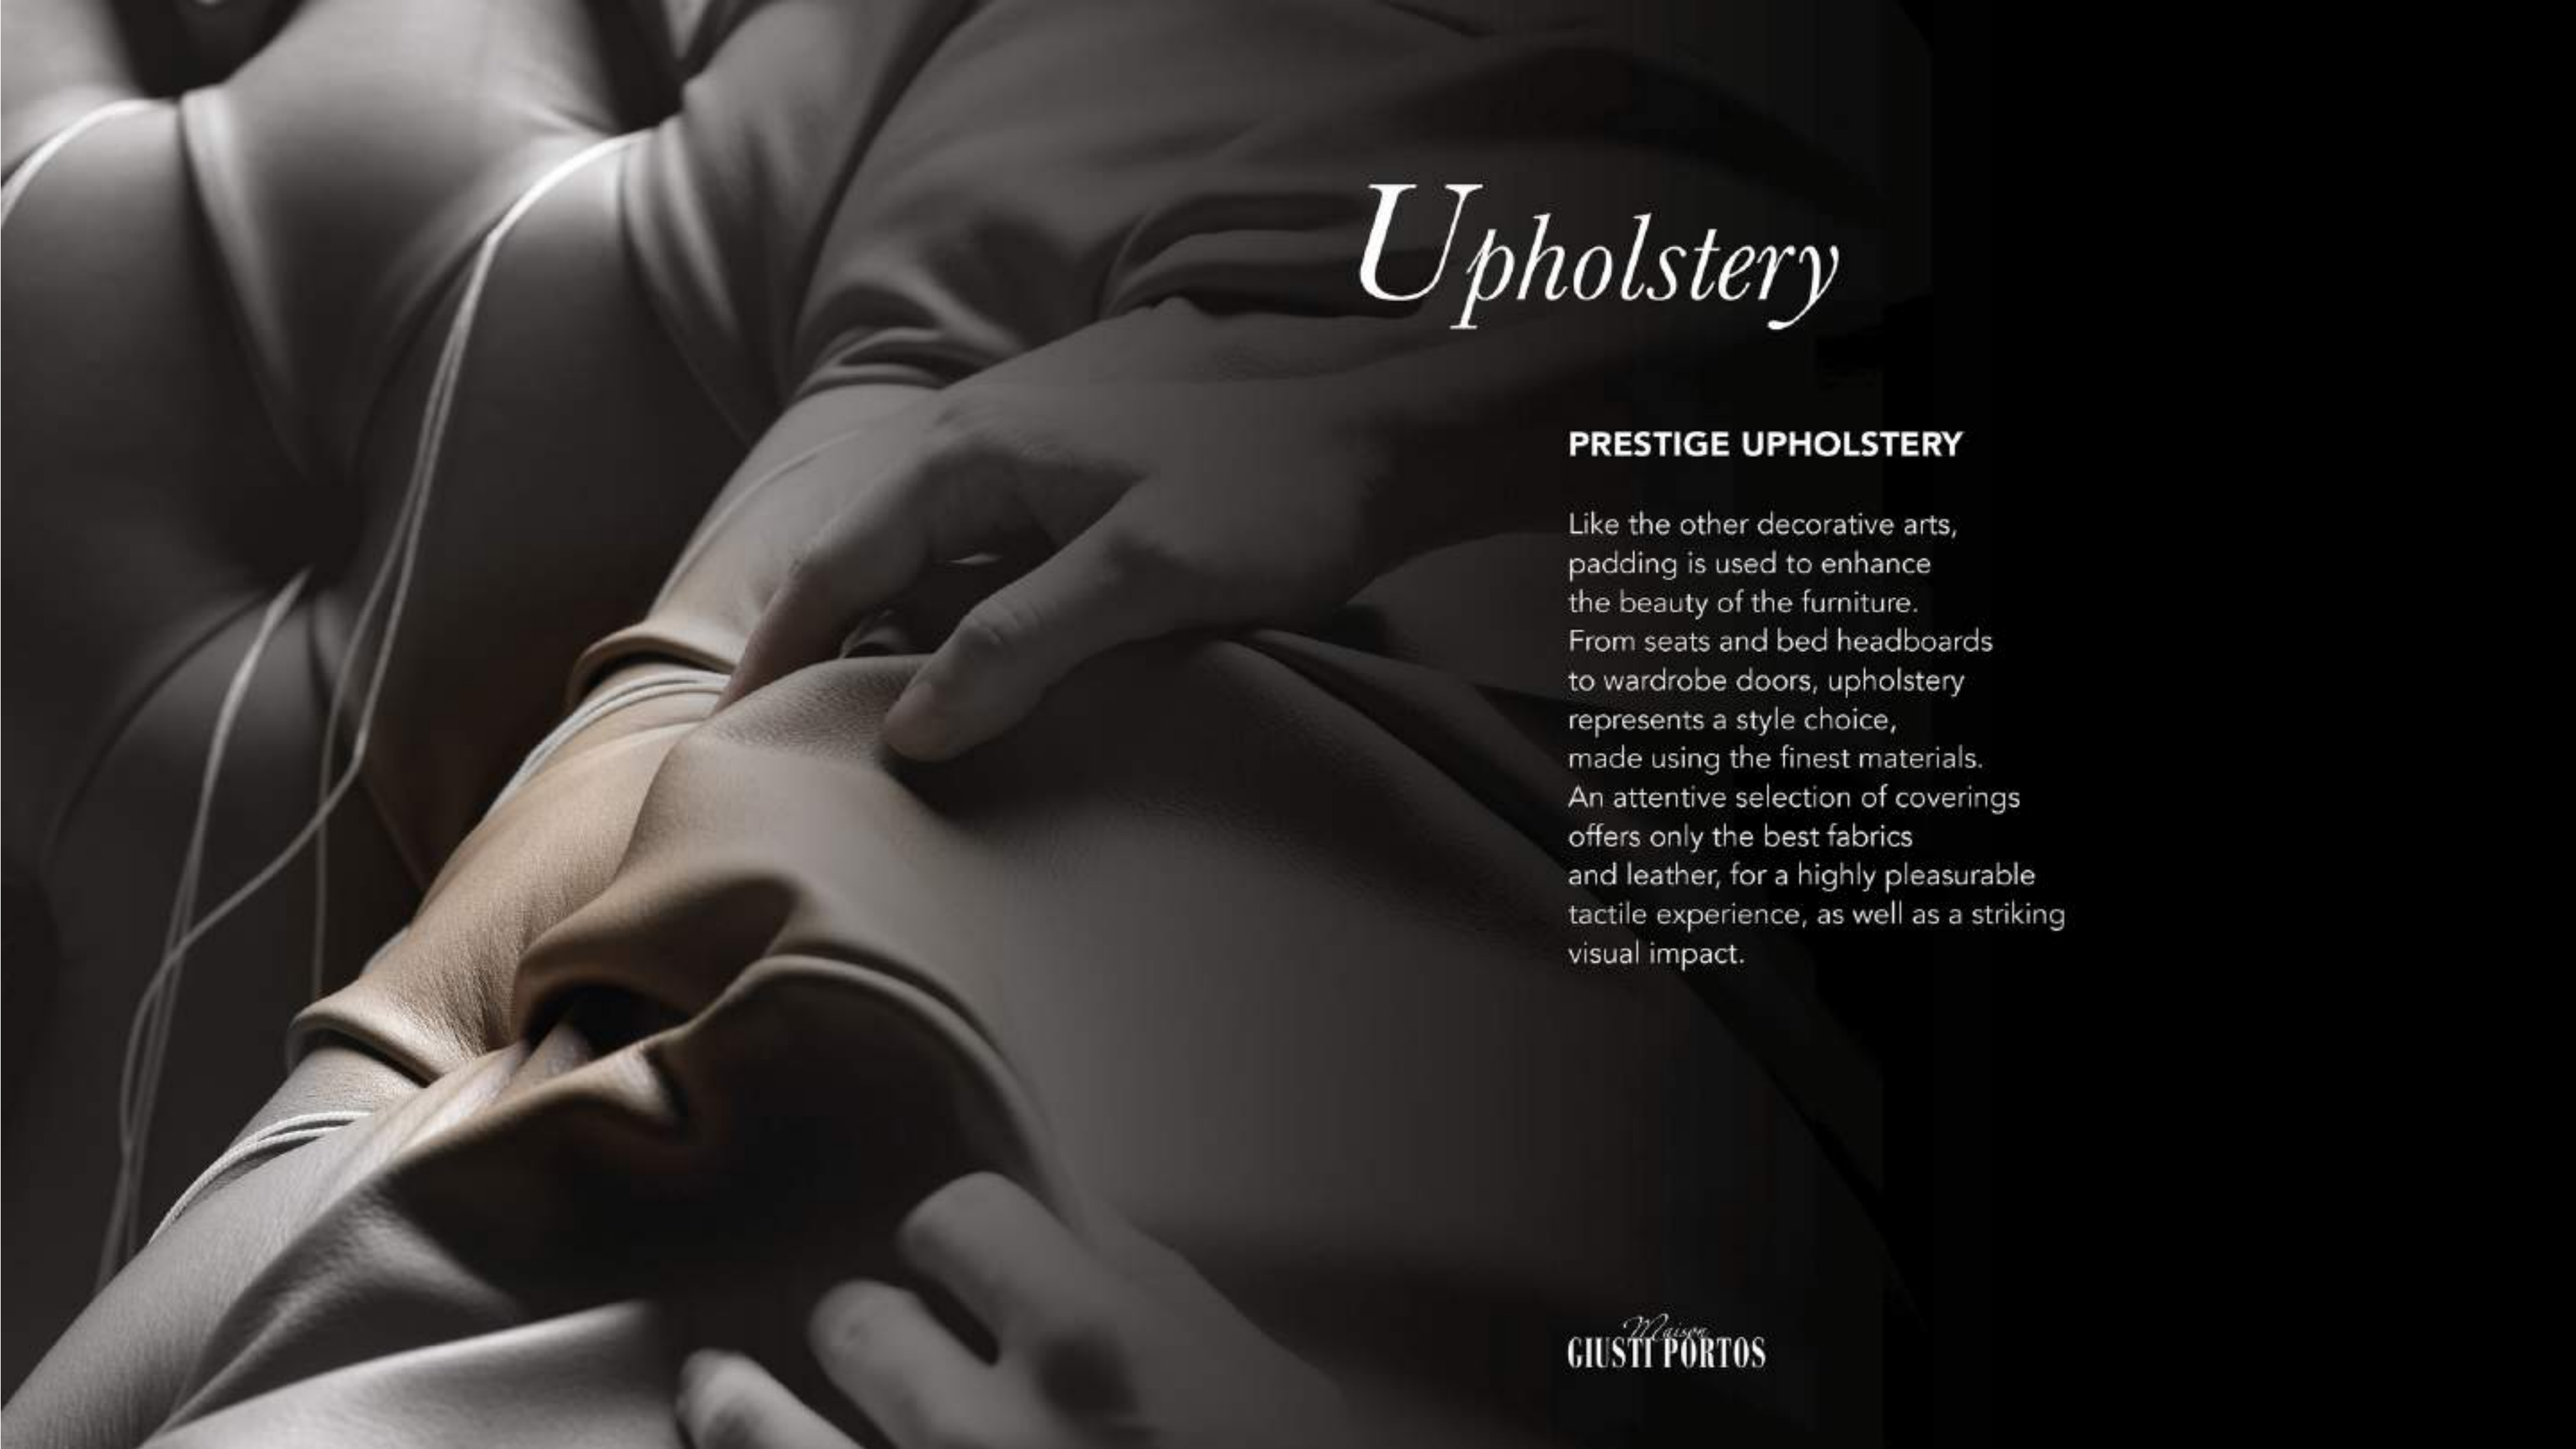

GOLD AND SILVER LEAF, AN ANCIENT TRADITION

The company specialises in decoration in gold and silver leaf, an ancient tradition that requires advanced skills and high specialisation for its application. Depending on the desired effect, leaf with various purities of gold and silver is applied, using the technique best suited to the piece in question. Knowledge of the type of leaf, the processing techniques and the base material results in a unique, prestigious effect: the application of fresh leaf, for example, can produce a pleasantly crumpled effect. Alternatively, when applying flat leaf, we add decorations in relief in advance, for a three-dimensional aesthetic effect, pleasurable to both the eye and the hand.
